Imperial Navy

(+2 Influence)

- Rear Admiral Sipentia von Trakkyr

Rear Admiral Sipentia von Trakkyr

-Was observed speaking with Dehvon at the Manor Party, topic of discussion uncertain.

-Pleased with the resolution of mechanical difficulties aboard Port Lysander.

-Attended the Gubernatorial Wedding alongside several Navy Ship Captains; gifted the couple a Navis Grata Dignitatum token of transit, and an evening demonstration of Naval ships and artillery, for entertainment.

-Interestingly, von Trakkyr expressed gratitude in our siding with the Clerics Regular over the Eternalites (though this may simply be due to the fact that our support indicates a speedier conclusion of the conflict in general). In a recent conversation, she extended an offer to Preacher Doran (to be conveyed by us) that if the hostilities should increase to unmanageable levels, the Navy would take in the Regulars under threat. This seems like an attempt at conscription.

-At the wedding, she took care to remind Kelle of Asterion and Port Lysander's importance in the Logistical Networks of the Cytheris Subsector, likely to determined whether we take such matters seriously.

-Von Trakkyr supports Magos Dominus Voltaire's bid to succeed Wakes as the Archmagos, believing that his promotion would aid the war effort.

-The Rear Admiral has contracted the work of Magos Techsorcist Voss Alpha-1 to purge a scrap code infection from a navy warship, the Judgment of Eminence. She requested that we determine whether he was making progress, and/or capable of completing the task; we have assessed both to be true.

-In the wake of the events in Void Dock 102, the Rear Admiral has become concerned about the presence of stealth technology used on the small craft vessel that collided with Port Lysander. She is actively seeking additional information on this technology, and I have been assisting in the analysis. She has also informed us that, given the typical use of such technology involving the Aeldari, the Inquisition is likewise investigating.