King Quinque

-Full Title: King Quinque, of the Five Winged Way, Singer of Soothsay, Guide and yet Still Astray

[Major Recent Developments]

-King Quinque returned from his pilgrimage, presumably as a fully fledged fivefold champion, as Lady von Tarquinius was launching her incursion on Asterion; he was thus able to rescue Ambassador Lethe from certain death.

-He has stated that the attack on Asterion is an opportunity to launch a fatal attack against Nurgle; the details of this plan can he found here.

[Prior Reports]

-Harlequin Solitaire—soul gambled between the Laughing God and Sai'lanthresh/Slaanesh, acts the role of the latter in Harlequin plays. It is for this reason that he has bonded with a Condemnor, intending for his soul to be destroyed/consumed, rather than letting it potentially fall into the hands of a chaos god after his death.

-Anvephone Traquiel's mysterious mentor; I strongly suspect that he has also given guidance to the Wakes Cognomen line, and perhaps instilled the notion of "crusade" as mentioned by Sojourner Wakes.

-Contacted Ambassador Lethe in a dream, then via an aeldari hard-light hologram. A more permanent connection point has been made via Kelle's Communior.

-Following the trail and philosophy of the Asterii; is a Third Order Champion, bonded with an Augmentor, Redressor, and Condemnor. Seeks to kill a chaos god (Nurgle, Captor of Isha), and wishes us to be allies in this endeavor.

-Wishes to know what is inside, but cannot enter, the Asterii Cathedral; explained that this limitation was due to his own choices, though not what those choices were. Additionally mentioned that there are four Wards in the Cathedral, instead of the expected five. Upon exploration of the Cathedral, a conclusion can be drawn that individuals bearing a Condemnor are held in low esteem by Asterii culture, and not allowed to enter such locations as the Cathedral.

-Gifted us an Augmentor, as proof of goodwill, which has been bonded to Verity (note: Lazarus was incapable of bonding with the device, indicating that specific protocols must be followed to equip more than one).

-After the exploration of the Asterii Cathedral, we provided King Quinque with a Voiddelver and a Communior. He has promised to teach us the initiation rights to become higher order champions ourselves, after he has become a Fifth Order Champion under the supervision of whatever council of entities is currently guiding him along the same path; this is apparently the proper way of doing things.

Palinea Traquiel/The Golden

[Heavy Encryption]

-Daughter of Anvephone Traquiel and another woman who provided the paternal component of genetic material.

-Mutated spontaneously at two weeks of age to have golden eyes, two rows of needle teeth, and some form of Immaterium related abilities. Could only consume raw meat. At some point developed a third eye on her forehead, similar in some regard to a navigator eye.

-Anvephone's personal logs indicate that Palinea may have been born a Blank, before her changes manifested.

-Remarkable semblance of mutation to an ancient prophecy regarding a fang toothed child who would bring salvation from the forces of chaos to Asterion.

-Was eleven years old at time of initial death, but due to accelerated aging resembled an adult woman very similar in appearance to her mother.

-Kept contact with her mother after vanishing from the palace five years ago; raided meat vats for sustenance; seemingly developed a cult of followers in the lower hive who believed in her divinity.

-Palinea claimed to be a servant of the Emperor, not the forces of the archenemy.

-Sister Majas sought to kill the mutant scion; KG Co operatives assisted in this assassination to secure an alliance with House Traquiel. However, some time after her death, Specialist Quint recovered her perfectly preserved soul from the Immaterium, describing it as having been held by an entity that willingly relinquished it to him. Her soul became housed in a pair of Servitors altered with psychic circuitry by Nepheli Havelock. Per instructions of Ambassador Lethe, these servitors have been dismantled and incinerated; the state of Palinea's soul is unknown, but has possibly returned to its preserved state in the Immaterium.

-Lazarus's affinity for Palinea and the lack of hostile reaction from the Nemesis Artifact serves as possible evidence that she is not a chaos entity, as the device has previously demonstrated a tendency to violently purge any taint of the archenemy. There is precedent for mutants existing within Imperial Sanction, such as Navigators.

-When prompted with the command "Truth," by Quint via the Nemesis Device, projected a vivid and highly detailed vision of the imminent destruction of Asterion.

Captain Mallie Krallendi

-Captain of the private/pirate vessel Absence of Decorum; provided transport to our company to the Asterii Cathedral. Following the success of this mission, was provided a bonus for having withstood unforeseen threats (ie, the Chaos Ship), and sent contracts for further cooperation.

-Contracted by KG-Co for transportation and trade in the Macharian Sector.

-Thus far, has shown satisfactory understanding of the need for secrecy regarding KG-Co activities.

Priest of Breath

-The man currently serving as steward and preacher of an odd church in the underhive.

Norimar Workers

-These individuals are largely of little ongoing concern, but were important during the investigation of the Corpse Starch Factory Incident.

-Emil and Quynes—previously worked at Norimar Corpse Starch Factory. Deceased.

-Rorn—local medicae. Deceased.

-Sister Nyla Syaurn—Priestess of a chapel in Norimar known as His Sanctified Cloister; has previously contacted Inquisitorial agents to convey rumors of Heresy

Gordinius Fuegonasus

-Restaurant owner and chef in Bluehull-92

-Tasked with the creation of quality/unique protein food

Silensia Aprecii

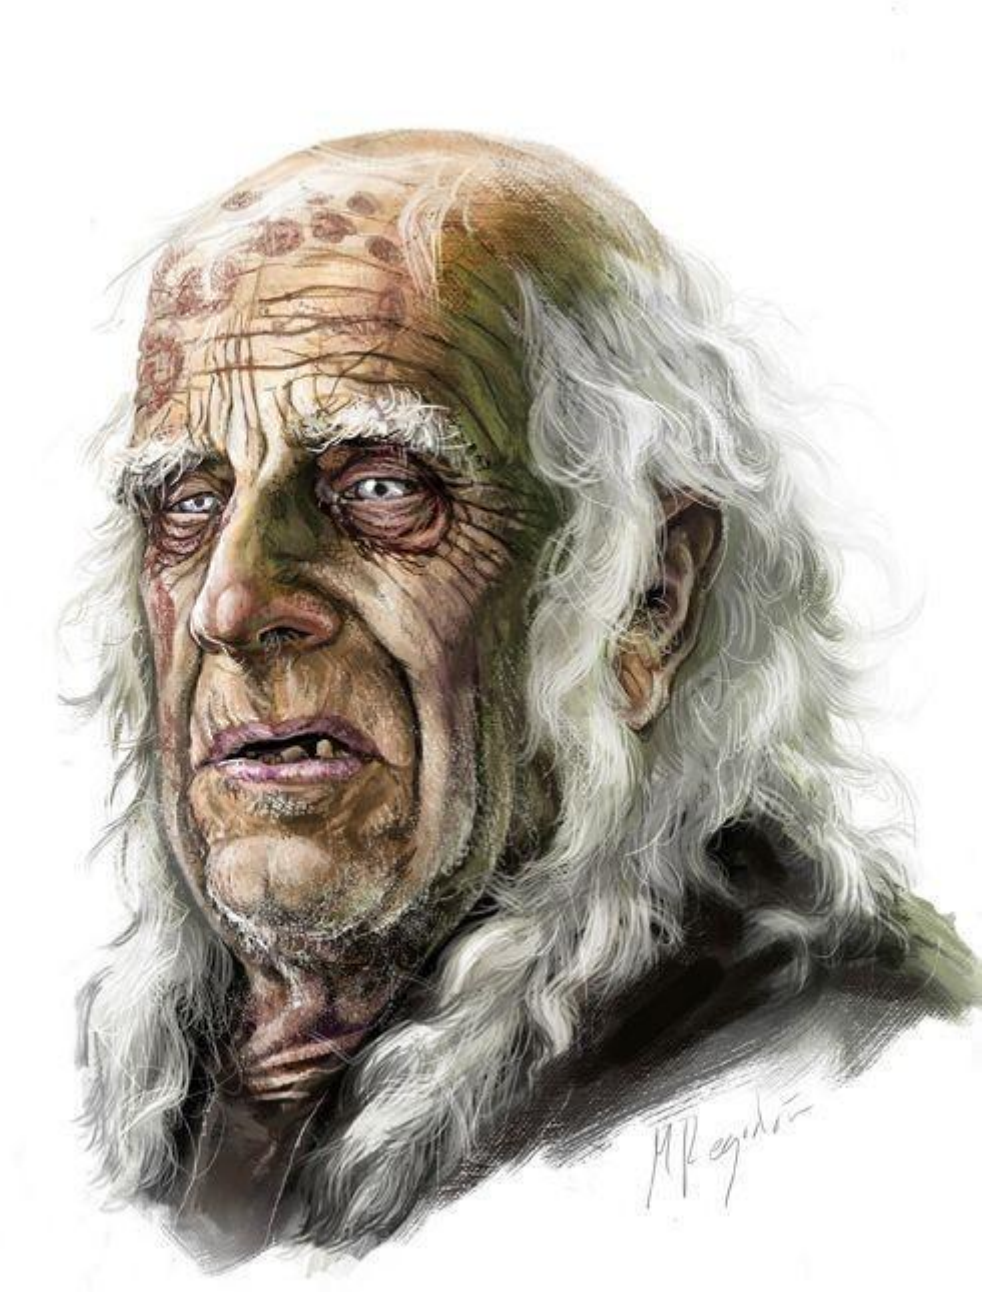

[Heavy Encryption]

-A woman, formerly part of the Norimar Labor force, who has come under the influence of the Shard Entity.

-Silensia views the Shard as her child and is set upon aiding it in its quest for understanding, as well as protecting it from destruction. She and a now dead co-conspirator were responsible for extracting and injecting the needles of the Shard that caused the events of the Norimar Corpse Starch Factory Incident.

-Both she and the Shard were convinced to cooperate with the Keojrah-Glynt Company by Ambassador Lethe, and have been secretly moved on board the Gilded Comet, where they presumably remain.

The Retired Spymaster of House Traquiel

-Has occasionally provided useful insights. Current affiliations and degree of loyalty to House Traquiel unknown.

Level Epsilon Zeta Hivers

[Heavy Encryption]

(See Thor Investigation Report)

Jaem Tesserak—A worker at the Las Battery Manufactorum, brother of Fex; has inert particles in his system matched with location and associations indicate intervention of the Momus Device to heal a physical ailment at some point in his life.

Fex Tesserak (Deceased)—Brother of Jaem, Manufactorum employee, victim of the Momus Device; alive and stable briefly after recovery, but succumbed to late stage cancer despite attempted medical interventions.

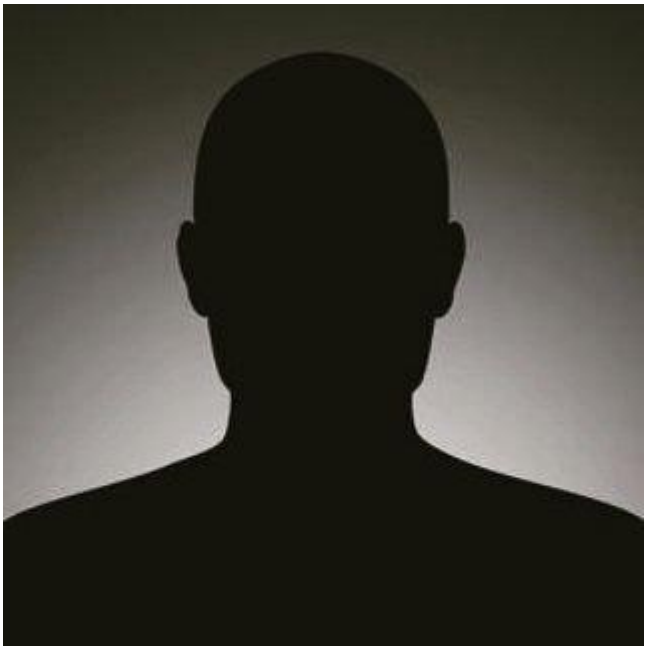

Madeleine—A worker at the Las Battery Manufactorum; charitable. Romantic partner of Medicae Wheetle, though relationship appears tenuous and subject to possible flux.

Medicae Estagon Wheetle—Employee at Spire Thor Levepszet Clinic. Sensible, practical. Romantic partner of Madeleine. Possible candidate for employment with Keojrah-Glynt Company.

Preacher Osten—Presiding preacher of local church in Levepszet; experiencing financial trouble. Established rapport with Preacher Enoch.

Ysme—Fortune teller with abysmal posture. Utilizes Emperor's Tarot. No psychic abilities detected.

Lucius Venn

-A traveling priest, apparently gaining some renown and attention in his sermons; mentioned to Enoch by a hiver he encountered in a tavern. (Billius, faithful, believes in relics and their necessity)
